CSC 212   Data Structures

Project 2 -- Help File

1. Read data from the text file. You might want to consider various methods, e.g. read( ) vs readline( ). Which is better in this case?

2. How would you separate the file content into individual words? Is there a string method that would do that?   What is the separator / delimiter to separate the words?   How would this method return the resulting the data?

3. Examine the separated words to ensure they do not include punctuations and other control characters. If they do, remove the unwanted characters.

4. Put each unique word in your set.

5. Display your set content